Stewart Psychological Services
Last updated September 30, 2026

Purpose and scope

These Terms of Use describe the permitted use of stewartpsychservices.com, the website of Stewart Psychological Services, the private practice of Daniel Stewart, Licensed Educational Psychologist in Massachusetts. Please review these terms before using the website. They apply to website use; professional services are governed by separate informed consent documents and service agreements.

General information

Website content provides general information about psychoeducational evaluations, social and emotional assessments, and related services. It is not individualized psychological, medical, educational, or legal advice. Reading the website does not establish a diagnosis or replace an evaluation by a qualified professional. Do not delay needed care based on website content.

Beginning professional services

Visiting the website, sending an inquiry, or requesting an appointment does not by itself create a professional relationship. Services begin only after the practice accepts the case and the required consent and service arrangements are completed. Services are offered within Daniel Stewart's licensure, competence, and applicable jurisdictional requirements. Appointment availability and suitability are determined individually.

Emergency situations

The website, contact forms, email, and business voicemail are not emergency services and are not monitored continuously. If there is immediate danger or a medical emergency, call 911 or go to the nearest emergency department. In the United States, call or text 988 for suicide or mental health crisis support. Do not rely on a website message for urgent assistance.

Fees and evaluation outcomes

The practice operates on a private-pay basis. Fees, payment timing, cancellation terms, and the scope of an evaluation are confirmed in a separate service agreement before services begin. Website descriptions or estimates do not replace that agreement. Assessments provide professional findings and recommendations based on the available information. A particular diagnosis, school eligibility decision, accommodation, placement, or outcome cannot be guaranteed. Schools and other agencies make decisions under their own applicable procedures and requirements.

Responsible website use

Use the website lawfully. Do not attempt unauthorized access, disrupt website functions, introduce malicious software, impersonate another person, or submit information you are not authorized to share. When contacting the practice about a child or another person, provide only information you are authorized to disclose. Contact the practice before sending sensitive records.

Website content and ownership

Original website text, branding, and other original materials belong to Stewart Psychological Services or their respective rights holders. You may view the website and print or download reasonable portions for personal, noncommercial use while preserving ownership notices. Reproduction, redistribution, alteration, or commercial use requires permission unless otherwise allowed by law. Third-party assessment instruments and materials remain the property of their respective publishers.

Privacy and outside services

Please review the website Privacy Practices notice for information about collection and handling of information. These terms do not authorize disclosure of confidential client information. Links, payment tools, and other third-party services may have separate terms and privacy policies. A link does not imply endorsement of all content or services on an external website.

Accuracy and availability

Reasonable efforts are made to keep website information accurate and current, but errors, omissions, and interruptions may occur. Website content, availability, and service descriptions may change. To the extent permitted by law, no guarantee is made that the website will be uninterrupted, error-free, or suitable for a particular purpose. Contact the practice to confirm details relevant to your decision to seek services.

Legal rights and governing law

These terms concern website use and do not waive client rights, confidentiality protections, or professional obligations. Nothing in these terms excludes liability or limits a remedy where doing so is prohibited by law. Massachusetts law governs these terms to the extent permitted by applicable law, without overriding protections that cannot lawfully be waived. If a provision is found unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue to apply to the extent permitted by law.

Changes and contact

Updated terms will be posted on the website with a revised date and apply prospectively. Updates to website terms do not amend a signed professional service agreement. For questions about these terms, contact Daniel Stewart, Licensed Educational Psychologist, at info@stewartpsychservices.com.
